A BILL

BILL HISTORY

Russell A. Castro is a second year Doctoral Student of Sociology, who also did his undergraduate work in Boulder. He is a member of "Alpha Kappa Delta", The National Sociological Honor Society, "The Graduate Student Association", as well as "The Society for the Study of Social Problems". Castro also serves as a member of the "Academic Support" staff at the CU Athletic Department.

Castro will be an instructor for the course "Deviance" (Sociology 1004) next semester. The paper that Castro has been invited to deliver, entitled "Alternative Exploration in Substance Use Control Policy", examines the phenomenon of contradictory interpretations of commonly held values, and the process of the social construction of Deviance within the Criminal Justice System. Attendance at the Conference of "The Society for the Study of Social Problems" offers the student body, through their contact with Castro as an instructor and "Academic Student Aid", a broadened understanding of these concepts, which can only be achieved through the type of information networking facilitated by national conferences. "The Society for the Study of Social Problems" is the second oldest and largest sociological association in the United States, offering Mr. Castro the opportunity to retrieve ideas and theories for his students from influential social scientists from all over the U.S. and the world. Attendance at this conference will be prestigious both for the student body and the University of Colorado as a whole.

Mr. Castro has budgeted his expenses according to University regulations and will receive one half of his airfare from the Dean of Arts and Sciences, the other half will be supplied by the University Presidents Office and the Chancellors Office (Perdiem). Mr. Castro, in association with the Graduate Student Advisory Council, requests a student fund disbursement in the amount of $240, which will be used exclusively to cover his lodging at the conference (specifically: 4 days @$60/day). His attendance at the conference will benefit the student body through the enrichment and enhancement of his theoretical basis, inevitably resulting in a better course content for his students, both in the Fall and in coming semesters.
