BILL HISTORY

As the internal turmoil in Israel increases due to the Palestinian Intifadah, questions of political and ethical rights emerge. It is now more important than ever for the American public, as Israel's main ally, to be correctly informed of the current situation in Israel. There are obviously many sides to the debate. The American Movement for Israel feels that there is a lack of correct information, and perhaps even ignorance in the campus community, to the actual background and present status of the Arab-Israeli debate. In order for Americans to make their own individual decisions, they need contrasting information. The speaker we propose to bring will give the campus community knowledge enabling it to judge the debate for themselves.

Ilan Mor is an Israeli now working at the Israeli Consulate in Los Angeles. His present title is 'Consul for Current Information'. He is well qualified to speak on the Arab-Israeli conflict as a native of Israel. He served in the Israeli Defense Forces in Air Force Intelligence and received both a B.A. and M.A. from Tel Aviv University. For five years he lectured at Haifa University on Israeli-Arab Affairs and Contemporary Arab History and has been working with the Israeli government since 1983. As a distinguished member of both the academic and international political communities, we feel he is singularly qualified to speak on this topic.
