A BILL

BILL HISTORY

Dave Foreman is considered one of today's most outspoken environmentalists. During the 1970s Foreman worked for The Wilderness Society as the Southwest Regional Representative and later as their lobbyist in Washington, D.C. Frustrated with mainstream environmentalism's lack of accomplishments, Foreman co-founded the Earth First! movement in 1980.

The Earth First! movement promotes the philosophy of Deep Ecology, which is the belief that the natural environment has rights in and of itself. Dave Foreman is the principal speaker of the Earth First! movement in the western United States, as well the former editor of the Earth First! Journal for six years. He will share his insights and perceptions of the future of environmentalism in the West. Foreman last spoke in Boulder in Fall 1985 when he packed the Forum Room. The opportunity for such a noted environmentalist to speak in Boulder will increase awareness of the environmental problems in the West on campus and inspire students to become involved in the environmental movement.

The CU Wilderness Study Group requested funding from the Cultural Events Board for this event, but was denied due to overwhelming number of requests CEB received.
