A BILL

BILL HISTORY

The International Women's Week Committee, in response to recommendations by the CU Regents, Administrators and campus organizations, desires to solicit a permanent private funding base for IWW. As a long-range planning effort, we are asking for student's support through mandatory student fees to provide financial stability for a nationally recognized event. This approval will show commitment to the University's stated goals of cultural, sexual, political and ethnic diversity.

International Women's Week provides excellent opportunities for the exchange of academic resources. This event promotes: education and leadership opportunities for women; interaction between faculty, staff and students and the surrounding communities; and the acknowledgement of women's achievements. International Women's Week, with its seventeen year history, has proven to be a major asset to this campus and now requires student's support in order to continue this prosperity to the community.

International Women's Week 1991, is Sunday, March 3rd through Saturday, March 9th.
