Resolution History

On October 14th 2000 the University of Colorado Buffaloes hosted the University of Texas at Austin Longhorns in Folsom Field. During the half-time event a disturbance among the University of Colorado student section resulted in objects of various sizes being tossed towards the field and other students. The Longhorn Marching Band as well as the University of Colorado Marching Band were caught in this disturbance leaving students injured. As a result 4 students were arrested and 12 students were referred to Judicial Affairs. The outcome from that hearing could result in suspension or expulsion. The University of Colorado Student Union is in the process of working with University of Colorado administration to make sure an event like this does not occur in the future.
